PUBLICATIONS, PAPERS, AND PROJECTS:

Book-

- Eldon G. Ernst with Douglas Firth Anderson, Pilgrim Progression: The Protestant Experience in California (Santa Barbara: Fithian Press, 1993).

Unpublished Book Ms.-

- In the Religious Borderlands of the Urban West: Protestant Anglophone Culture and Institutions in Metropolitan San Francisco, 1900-1920.

Projects-

- Western America: Many Places, Many Peoples. A projected 300-350 pp. historical synthesis of the region that became the U.S.A. west of the Mississippi River. Within an overall chronological narrative, the work would introduce various themes, issues, and topics reflective of the newer western historiography of the last two or three decades of the twentieth century. Its intended audience would be college undergraduates, either in general survey history courses of the U.S. or in history courses of the U.S. West.
- "Nantan Betunyahyeh: John P. Clum, the Apaches of San Carlos Agency, and Cross-Cultural Respect, 1874-7." This projected paper is based on research conducted in the summer of 2000 at the Arizona Historical Society and the Special Collections of the University of Arizona Library.
